My Story Map

MY STORY WALL

On My Story Wall (mystorywall.eu) we created an online exhibition of our story maps. These maps were developed by the participants themselves (early school leavers). The idea is that these stories can be browsed through and shared easily in a presentation which is especially targeted at young people at risk of drop out in schools.

The My Story-Wall: On the StoryWall, you can find all public stories of the five partner countries. Since not all stories were set to public, there is also a private stories-section. These can only be viewed by participants of the My Story Map-project.

The stories will also be used to introduce in the schools the work foreseen in the IO6 workshops as a training tool. Here, students will be invited to discuss their own views and experiences after reading them together. Teachers can also use these tools also to support individually students, proposing them to use this method to become “teachers” for their peers in the school.
